Back to Basics workshops: Identifying and understanding textiles

We are pleased to announce details for three workshops supported by Arts Council England.

Identifying printed textiles with Philip A. Sykas

21 February 2012, Manchester Metropolitan University, Whitworth Art Gallery, and Platt Hall, Manchester

Identifying woven textiles with Sue Kerry

6 March 2012, Snibston Discovery Park, Leicestershire

Identifying fibres and fabrics with Mary M. Brooks

16 March 2012, Leeds Museum Discovery Centre

- The purpose of the workshops is to enable participants to improve the documentation and interpretation of collections and make them as accessible as possible to the widest audiences.
- Participants will be given an information pack based on the activities of the workshop.
- There is no charge for the workshops, and travel costs for participants of up to £50 will be reimbursed on receipt of an invoice with original receipts for tickets purchased. We hope to provide lunch and refreshments on the day.
- Places are strictly limited to twelve for each workshop to provide a good learning experience for all, so early booking is advised. We will keep a waiting list if the workshops are over-booked in case of cancellations.
- Open to DATS members only
- Bookings close 10 February 2012
